Why Richland?

Richland County is the cultural epicenter of the state, featuring top locally- and nationally-ranked attractions.

Family-friendly and walkable, the Columbia region boasts a big city feel without the congestion and exudes small-town hospitality. This vibrant and culturally rich community is also home to a booming arts and music scene.

The region is also an outdoor paradise with the Three Rivers Greenway offering over 15 miles of riverfront trails along the Broad, Congaree and Saluda rivers, kayaking/tubing, walking/hiking trails, Lake Murray access, Congaree National Park and its annual synchronous fireflies display, Finlay Park and numerous other green spaces/parks speckled throughout the community.
